Throwback Thursday: Museum Your way

Help us preserve today's current events for the future.

Who: You and your family

What:

- If you have been a regular Camp AH-HA camper, you know we have been talking about artifacts and how museum curators use them to tell a story.
- For today's Throw Back Thursday, we are asking for your help.
- We are living in an historic moment. In the future, museums will look back and want to tell the story of what life was like during the lock down in the year 2020.
- We are asking you and your family to help us preserve what life was like today for the future.
- With your help, we will create an exhibit showcasing what families felt and did during the lock down.

How:

- Talk to your family and think about what you have been doing over the last few weeks. Write down the top ten things you and your family did. Maybe it was schoolwork, or Facetime or playing board games or doing puzzles.
- Next, have each member of your family take a picture of an item (artifact) that you used a lot over the last few weeks that you think helps tell the story of this time (For more on how artifacts tell a story, check out our earlier What's It Wednesday posts on our website)

- Then, send your list and pictures to us! Make sure you tell us what the picture is and why you think it helps tell the story of 2020.
- Email your lists and pictures to us at info@heritagesylvania.org.
- We will use your pictures and lists for an exhibit later this year.
- Have fun being a Curator and helping us make our museum your way!
- To get you started, see our picture below. It is of a tape dispenser. We used it to pack a lot of boxes over the last few weeks!
